NO MISUNDERSTANDING OF WHERE BRITAIN STANDS IN REGARD TO DANZIG

"Fifth Column" Technique Equivalent To Attack

LONDON, July 11 (BWS)—THE MORNING PRESS DEVOTES LEADING ARTICLES TO THE PRIME MINISTER'S STATEMENT ON DANZIG YESTERDAY.

"The Times" says, "There can be no margin for misunderstanding where Britain stands in regard to Danzig after the statement made by the Prime Minister in the House of Commons yesterday. It is not Mr. Chamberlain's custom to employ threatening or hyperbolic language or, indeed, to use a single superfluous word. With him every word counts and every word of yesterday's statement stands in indissoluble relation to action past, present or to come. Danzig, he fully recognizes, is a German city. But its geographical position gives it vital, strategic and economic importance for Poland."

"Rights and liberties of Danzigers are in no way threatened, the issue raised by Herr Hitler in his speech last April—when he stated the claim of the Reich to annex Danzig—established more clearly than ever the international character of the present Danzig problem. And it challenges the settlement, which is in itself international, for it was reached after a war not by Poland alone but by all allied and associated nations, was accepted by Germany and was subsequently ratified by Herr Hitler in his own pact with Poland."

"It is, nevertheless, natural and proper that the question should be asked both here and in Germany whether a vote of its citizens would place Danzig under sovereignty of the Reich and, if so, why Great Britain and other countries should fight to oppose the transfer. There is more than one answer, even apart from those which so clearly emerge from Mr. Chamberlain's statement.

"The position makes it impossible to judge the question of its status in isolation as if it were of no importance to any other country whether Germany did or did not, for instance, fortify it after taking possession.

"Moreover, a vote taken in a city which has been ruled by Nazis for any length of time does not necessarily represent the true opinion of its citizens—it took four years after the accession to power of the Fuehrer in Berlin for intimidation and all other measures of militant Nazism to gain a bare two-thirds majority in the Senate which was legally necessary to modify the constitution of the Free City. And

NO SETTLEMENT IN STRIKE

No settlement was reported last night in the Chinese composers and printers strike which began on Monday night, but it was learned that representatives from both sides were endeavouring to reach a satisfactory agreement.

Most of the Chinese papers were affected by the strike and as a result the other had very large sales. The "Kuo Min Jih Pao" (National Times), was the earliest on the street yesterday morning, and 40,000 copies were sold during the day.

U.S. WANTS BIGGER WARSHIPS

REQUEST MADE TO CONGRESS

NEW YORK, July 11 (T/Ocean)—According to reports received here from Washington the Navy Department intends to ask Congress at its next session to appropriate funds for the construction of two more 45,000-ton battleships. The keels of the first two ships of this class, Iowa and New Jersey were laid some weeks ago in addition to six 35,000-ton battleships now under construction.

It is declared that naval experts hold the opinion that 35,000-ton battleships are no longer large enough to meet the requirements of the situation and therefore, they demand the building of two more 45,000-ton battleships, although the cost of construction of a single battleship of this larger tonnage is about $100,000,000.

Sabotage Of Tokyo Talks

IMPOSSIBLE BASIS SET IN ADVANCE

TOKYO, July 11 (Reuter)—Officials of the Foreign Office and the War Office are reported to have agreed on a policy to govern the negotiations with Britain concerning the Tientsin question.

The "Asahi" declares that the abandonment by Britain of her "pro-Chiang Kai-shek policy" must be the fundamental basis of the negotiations.

The newspaper adds that the four-point demands made by the Chinese "Provisional Government" at Peking will be reiterated at the conference.

BRITISH POLICE TAKE FIRM STAND IN TIENTSIN

TIENTSIN, July 11 (Reuter)—British police took a firm stand when two Chinese policemen from a boat containing armed Japanese landed in the British Concession and demanded the handing over of a Chinese boatman who had ferried passengers to the Concession from the Japanese occupied area.

The demand was refused and the Chinese returned to the boat, which they had left, and did not return.

HOW HITLER ATTACKS FROM WITHIN

German Propaganda Work: "Confessions Of A Nazi Spy" Shown In London

SPECIAL TO THE "H.K.D.P."

LONDON, July 11.—While Londoners are crowding to see the new American picture "Confessions of a Nazi Spy" based on the recent Nazi spy-ring revelations in America, and the whole world is wondering what is Hitler's next move, the press here is giving publicity to the new Penguin Special edition "The Attack from Within." The author is Mr. F. Elwyn Jones, the Welsh writer and barrister, who not only analyses Hitler's new technique of aggression, but exposes the organization of the Nazi attack from within Britain itself.

He shows how in England, as in all countries where Nazi penetration is being organized, Nazi Germans are closely organized for espionage and propaganda work.

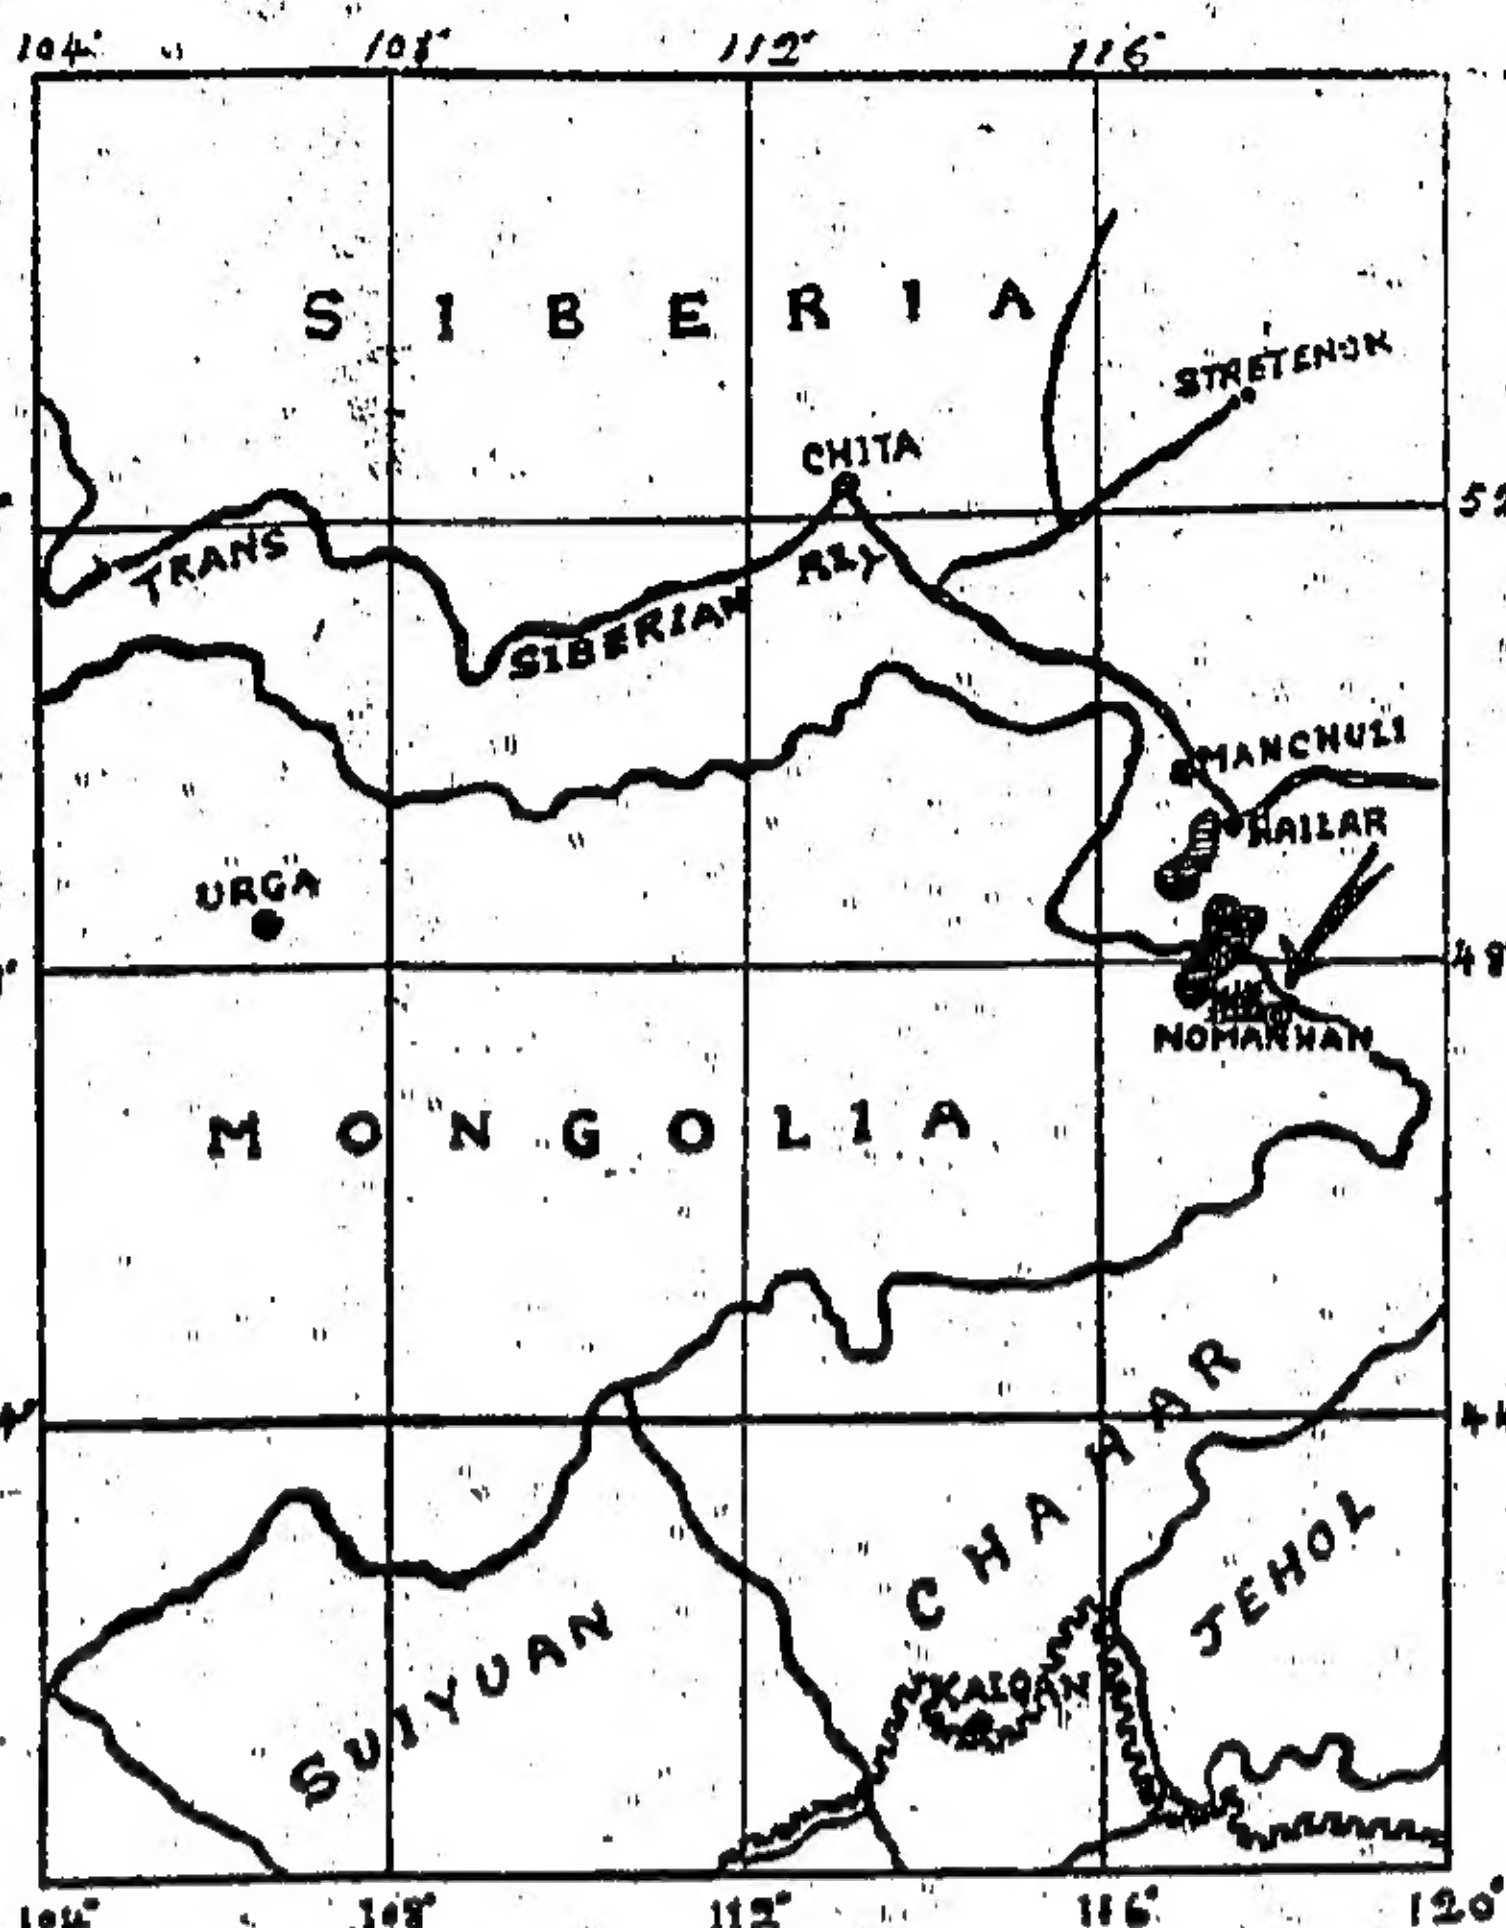

Ruthless measures of blackmail and threats of terrorism against relatives in Germany are used to force non-party Germans into the brown network. The Nazi Labour Front even controls German domestic servants employed in British homes.

VIVID PICTURE

A well-documented description of Fascist Germany itself and its relations with its Axis allies, Italy and Japan, gives a vivid picture of Hitler's preparations for new aggressions.

A concluding chapter, however, shows how effective a real Peace Front of the threatened countries led by Britain, France, and the Soviet Union, can be in stopping this lawless attack of Fascism.

With the formation of such an overwhelmingly strong Peace Bloc, Mr. Jones considers that it would be possible to undertake a peace conference before the world war which, he asserts, has already begun, has broken out into world-wide military conflict.

Soviet Guns, Planes In Action On Border

TOKYO, July 11 (Reuter)—Artillery and aerial action heralded another day's fighting on the Mongol border.

According to field despatches, Soviet bombers, believed to be of the heaviest type, penetrated, while it was still dark, into "Manchukuo" territory as far as Hallar, a hundred miles from the fighting zone.

Other Soviet planes heavily bombed several points east of the Khala River.

At dawn, Soviet guns west of Khala River shelled Japanese positions in the marshes opposite and Japanese artillery replied.

Improvement In Lot Of British Shipbuilding

LONDON, July 11 (Reuter)—The first concrete evidence of the British Government's recent plans to improve the lot of British shipbuilding by according subsidies to United Kingdom ship owners, for the purpose of enlarging their fleets, appears in Lloyd's Register of Shipbuilding returns for the quarter ended July 30, 1939.

These reveal that the United Kingdom has commenced upon 402,080 tons of building during the past three months showing a

Italy Expels Britons, French From Tyrol

Forty Eight Hours To Go

LONDON, July 11 (Reuter)—About 30 British subjects are affected by a sudden police order, requiring that all permanent residents of British, French, Dutch or Swiss nationality leave the Italian Tyrol within 48 hours.

The time limit has already expired, but it is understood that a few days' grace will be allowed.

CHAMBERLAIN'S SPEECH FRENCH PRESS AND HINT ON GERMAN-POLISH PARLEYS

Guerillas In Hainan Tingan Raided Repeatedly

SUPWEN, KWANGTUNG, July 11 (Central)—While major fighting has ceased on Hainan Island, the harassing and hampering activities of the Chinese guerillas are effectively preventing the Japanese forces from pushing inland from the coast.

Sporadic fighting continued in the vicinity of Tingan and Kachek, two of the larger towns on the island. On July 8, a Japanese unit of about 100 men attacked King-kushin from Tingan but was repulsed by Chinese forces in a clever sortie. The engagement lasted several hours.

Another Japanese unit from Tingan attacked the Chinese on the western suburb on the same day and was also driven back by a strong force of guerillas. During the encounter the Japanese lost a number of men and many rifles.

In a surprise raid on Tingan on the same night, Chinese guerillas killed a Japanese blue-jacket and seven traitors.

ALL MINISTERS TO REMAIN IN PARIS

PARIS, July 11 (Reuter)—The Cabinet decided, at its sitting to-day, that all Ministers of the Government must remain in or near Paris until further notice.

The Foreign Minister, M. Bonnet, made a general statement on the international situation at the commencement of the session.

BRITISH BOMBERS UNDERTAKING BIG TEST FLIGHT

LONDON, July 11 (T/Ocean)—According to the "Daily Express," 200 bombers of the Royal Air Force will shortly start from their bases on a long-distance flight to the Franco-Spanish border and back. The flight is being undertaken in order to subject the planes to a searching test and it is intended to carry it out as a non-stop flight during which the planes will cover a distance of roughly 1,900 kilometres in a single day. According to the "Daily Express" about 1,000 men of the personnel of the R.A.F. will participate in the flight.

PARLEYS Uneasiness Expressed

PARIS, July 11 (Reuter)—Mr. Chamberlain's statement in the House of Commons is given a generally favourable reception in the press though a few commentators express uneasiness regarding the Premier's remarks on the possibility of German-Polish negotiations.

"Populaire" says that Mr. Chamberlain left no doubt regarding Britain's intentions. "Figaro" states that the declaration does not contain a shadow of reserve on the value of the western Powers' undertaking in regard to Poland.

"Petit Parisien" writes that Mr. Chamberlain did not exclude the possibility of a peaceful arrangement. This possibility, however, seems very improbable at the moment, the paper adds.

"Epoque" says that a passage in Mr. Chamberlain's speech contemplating the possibility of negotiations is not so fortunate because Germany will only consent to reconciliation with Poland if the latter gives up Danzig.

MODERATE TONE

ROME, July 11 (T/Ocean)—The statements made by Mr. Chamberlain in the House of Commons on the Danzig question, in the view of the Italian press, cannot be regarded as a contribution towards settlement of that question. The papers declare that the British Premier's speech contained nothing although the speech was marked by a relatively moderate tone.

Reuter adds that the Rome newspapers interpret Mr. Chamberlain's speech as "hinting at another Munich."

The "Popolo di Roma" refers to the surprise of those who expected the Prime Minister to take a more severe tone.

The "Messaggero" declares: "The sword which London waved so high has been prudently put back in the sheath."

LANDING ATTEMPT IN CHUNGSHAN REPELLED

MACAO, July 11 (Reuter)—Latest reports from the Chungshan front state that the Japanese have been forced to withdraw from both the points at which they tried to land, despite the fact that the attempts were made with the co-operation of their air force.

Refugees Slaughtered

Three buses full of refugees fleeing to Macao along the highway from Shensi were machine-gunned to-day by Japanese planes. The casualties are reported to be numerous.

The planes also dropped leaflets recommending that the people "accept Japanese friendship." Bombs dropped at the same time killed four and injured nine.

Previous reports stated that attempts to land were made at Machee and Tisic. Fighting was severe.

Junks carrying foodstuffs for Macao were stopped.

HARVEY, MASTER TACTICIAN GREAT DISPLAY OF GENERALSHIP

Deserved Winner Over McAvoy

LONDON, July 11 (Reuter).—At the White City yesterday 100,000 spectators saw Len Harvey win the World, Empire and British Cruiser-weight titles by out-pointing Jack McAvoy over fifteen rounds.

Harvey was a deserved winner after being on the verge of a knock-out in the fourteenth round. He gave a great display of generalship and masterly tactics.

MASTER TACTICIAN
Coming back from the verge of being knocked out in the fourteenth round, Harvey crowned his 20 years' boxing career by becoming the holder of five titles simultaneously.

Harvey showed his usually good generalship and proved to be a master tactician. He allowed the rugged McAvoy to force the pace for two-thirds of the fight and then applied pressure when McAvoy was tiring after the tenth round. Harvey landed rights and lefts to the head and body almost as he pleased and McAvoy was soon distressed. McAvoy punched desperately in the fourteenth and forced Harvey to hold grimly on to a fight which finished with both men standing toe to toe and hitting recklessly.

FORCING TACTICS
Harvey won seven rounds, McAvoy six and two were even. McAvoy continued his forcing tactics in the sixth, seventh and eighth rounds, punching from all angles. He rocked Harvey in the seventh with left hooks followed by rights.

The fight developed into a needle in the closing rounds when Harvey, with well-timed punching, monopolized the exchanges.

There were scenes of the wildest enthusiasm as Harvey donned the Lonsdale Belt and kissed his wife.

DOYLE KNOCKED OUT
Eddie Phillips knocked out Jack Doyle in 2 min. 24 sec. in the first of a ten-round bout after Phillips had been twice downed for counts of two.

Phillips then, with a left to the body and a right hook to the chin finished the fight which was Doyle's first since he fought Phillips last September when he was catapulted through the ropes.

OLYMPIC GAMES COMMITTEE MEETS
HELSINKI, July 11 (T/Ocean).—The Organizing Committee of the Twelfth Olympic Games 1940, in Helsinki, definitely decided to arrange a Torch Relay Race from Greece to Helsinki, following the example of the Berlin Olympic Games in 1936.

The dates for various competitions at the Olympic Stadium have been also fixed. The Organizing Committee, however, decided not to hold gymnastic competitions for women in Helsinki.

Forty-five nations have announced their participation in the games, including Japan, whose participation had been doubtful up to the present.

Iran will, for the first time, be represented at the Olympic Games.

NEW YORK, July 11 (Reuter).—There were no games played in the Major Baseball League yesterday as the annual All-Star match has been fixed for to-day.

RIGGS ROUTED RUTHLESSLY

Von Cramm Loses Only One Game

The following write-up by a special English correspondent of the recent final of the London Grass Court championships at Queen's Club, is of interest in view of the impending Wimbledon Final:—

LONDON, June 24.—Bang went the big American reputation of Bobbie Riggs, writes Ulysses Rogers, when Gottfried Von Cramm got him out on the show court at Queen's yesterday and beat him 6-0, 6-1.

They were candidates for a place in the final to-day for the London Grass Court championship.

Any one who calls the Von Cramm-Riggs affair a match has no idea of stylometry. It was a massacre. Riggs couldn't make any real show.

Von Cramm, on the other hand, scarcely perpetrated an error. He treated Riggs to almost every variety of service; when he volleyed it was decisive; his driving found the mark again and again. And that mark was somewhere

WINDSOR LAD LAWSUIT LIKELY

Windsor Lad, the 1934 Derby winner, who is suffering from a tumour on the brain, is likely to be the subject of a legal action.

It is understood that there is some discussion about the horse's insurance. Windsor Lad cost his present owner, Mr. Martin Benson, £50,000, and the amount of the insurance is believed to be in the region of £35,000.

Apparently a clause in the policy states that if Windsor Lad is destroyed the insurance becomes void. Mr. Benson hopes to have this clause set aside on humane grounds.

Windsor Lad won the Derby of 1934 for the Maharaja of Raippla, who sold him to Mr. Benson, in whose colours the colt won the St. Leger.

He has been at Mr. Benson's stud at Newmarket for three years. His first batch of two-year-olds will race next season.

That Riggs failed to reach in time to make a good return. Rarely has a man with a big reputation been so egg-crushed.

Von Cramm took the first eleven games. Then Riggs just managed to break the run, only to lose the next game.

Time: twenty-three minutes.

MARCUS MARSH'S MONEY TROUBLES

Bankruptcy Petition Reported Filed

Mr. Marcus Marsh, who trained the £50,000 horse Windsor Lad when he won the Derby and St. Leger in 1934, recently filed his bankruptcy petition according to a London report. He is aged thirty-five.

"Don't ask me where the money's gone, old boy," said Mr. Marsh at his home at Lambourn, Berkshire, when interviewed. "You'll have to wait for the creditors' meeting for details."

"I'm moving next week, you know. I'm giving up this house and taking a bungalow at Winchester. Get to cut down a bit. Mind you, I've never been a big spender."

"I've got a pretty nice house here, but I'm not one of those fellows who goes in for large parties and cars and that sort of thing."

"I'm perfectly happy to be at home with the wife and baby. I've been training horses for about twelve years. I shall take a dozen horses with me to Winchester. I shall still work for about seven or eight owners."

Mr. Marsh married the former Miss Eileen Bennett, the tennis star, after her first marriage to

UNIQUE EXPEDITION BY CHINESE WRITERS

Quest For Material In Rear Of Enemy

Some dark night next month, somewhere along the Yellow River, a convoy of trucks will grind slowly to a halt, and 15 men and women will alight. Silently they will cross the river, and slip past Japanese sentries; quickly they will be met by waiting friends, and away they will go until they have penetrated far into the territory that Japan calls "occupied." For six months, this unique expedition will tour the centres of Chinese resistance in the provinces of Hopei, Shansi, Chahar and Suiyuan.

The members of the expedition are playwrights, poets, novelists, essayists and artists who are setting out to match, in actual practice, the pen against the sword. Led by Mr. Shelley Wang, well-known Chinese scholar and author, the 15 members of the group, known as the "pen guerrillas," left Chungking early on the morning of June 18. Among them are three women.

The "pen guerrillas" plan to visit every important centre of Chinese resistance behind the Japanese lines in North China. Their purpose is many. They plan to collect materials to show posterity the entire panorama of Chinese resistance to Japanese aggression; they plan to report to Free China the sweep and the extent of Chinese activity on the other side of the lines; they plan to establish relationships between the new, vibrant Chinese cultural groups that are forming all through the "occupied" areas and their unfortified counterparts in Free China; they plan to seek among the peasants and soldiers of the North China the pulsing literary record of historic scenes they have witnessed and survived.

Collective Novel

As the final fruit of their long expedition they hope to produce both a collective novel and a collective poem—perhaps the first military and political report ever produced by the collective efforts of the nation's finest artists. In addition, at least 12 volumes of survey reports will be published by the group on its return at the close of the year.

Mr. Wang declared, at a farewell meeting at Chungking on June 17, that this is not the first time the artists have refused to remain aloof in the world struggle for justice. Many are the able writers and artists who are now working in North China; many other artists, such as Ralph Fox and Julian Bell have died in the fields of Spain.

But, it is the first group of artists and writers to be sent out to the struggle as an officially sponsored group, for this group is sponsored by the China National Writers Association. This is only the first of a series of such expeditions; other men are to be sent to live illegally in Peiping, record with an artist's pen a never-to-be-forgotten chapter of Chinese history, C.I.O.

"EMPHATIC" U.S. PROTEST MADE TO JAPAN

WASHINGTON, July 11 (Reuter)—Acting on instructions of Mr. Cordell Hull, U.S. Secretary of State, the U.S. Charge d'Affaires in Tokyo made what the State Department has termed "emphatic representations" to Mr. Arita, the Japanese Foreign Minister, including a specific protest against "the indiscriminate bombings of Chungking which had seriously endangered American life and property."

CHINESE EDUCATIONAL PLANS: PRESENT PROBLEMS: MINISTER INTERVIEWED

CHUNGKING, July 11 (T/Ocean)—Mr. Chen Li-fu, Chinese minister of Education, in the course of an interview with T/Ocean's Chief correspondent, stated that over 50 per cent of the Chinese universities and other seats of learning in China had been destroyed during the present hostilities.

Many of these had, however, been re-established in the interior and the process of re-equipping them was still going on. Some of the valuable libraries, such as the Wuhan University and Central University Libraries had been spared, but great losses had been suffered in regard to scientific equipment.

One of the most outstanding cases was that of the Sino-German Tungchi University, near Shanghai, where a great part of the scientific and other instruments had been lost.

Lack Of Funds
Mr. Chen Li-fu stated that formerly Chinese institutes of learning had been mostly concentrated at a few points close to each other, but now an effort was being made to distribute them over the country. This was, however, proving difficult owing to the lack of adequate housing and the inability to construct new buildings due to lack of funds.

It had been planned, however, to leave a certain number of universities and high schools in the interior of China even after the war in order to give the inhabitants of the interior provinces equal chances.

Reconstruction Work
In the meantime, the Ministry of Education was encouraging students to continue their studies, as after the "conclusion" of the hostilities there would be a great demand for engineers and scientists for reconstruction work.

The Minister also hoped that foreign scientists would come to China after the war and he expressed the special hope that Germany would send out scientists to teach Chinese students.

He also expressed a wish that German teachers should come out to China now in order to effect that continuity of Sino-German cultural relations which had not been broken off.

German Co-operation
The Minister mentioned the German donations which had enabled Chinese students to continue their studies in Germany and expressed the hope that in the future they would be able to continue these studies in Germany as it would benefit Germany too.

Owing to the currency restriction difficulties, German donations now would be all the more welcome. He felt that the war had taught to realize what they lacked and what provisions should be made for the future.

All provisions were now being made to cope with the increased demand for education and scientifically trained men were badly needed.

In conclusion Mr. Chen Li-fu reiterated his hope for further Sino-German cultural co-operation and that young German teachers would soon be sent to China for the mutual benefit of both countries.

DAYS OF THE FIRST WOMEN STUDENTS

A century of unique records of the Victorian young lady and her modern counterpart, the "deb," is being compiled by Miss L. M. Dean at the college that housed the first women students in mid-Victorian times, Queen's College, Harley-street.

The college and its oldest Royal patron, Princess Louise Duchess of Argyll, were born within a fortnight of each other in March, 1848. They grew up together in an atmosphere fraught with the struggle of women to find wider scope for their natural gifts.

Individualistic Princess Louise installed her studios and made a name as sculptor and artist, as students were radiating out from the college to blaze the trail in a score of ways from commerce to workhouse visiting.

Queen Victoria's College—it was her special pride that she furthered women's education by giving £250 to found it and presenting it with a Royal charter—has had each successive Queen as its patron-in-chief.

Nine Years' Time
Until its foundation there was no alternative between a home education and academies that turned out girls for the drawing-room and marriage market.

The records of those first students and their reaction to college life have never been collected before. Many of them are in the possession of the Governesses Benevolent Institution, which at first was associated with the college.

College centenary celebrations in another nine years' time are already being planned. A history of the first 100 years of women students may be published as a result of Miss Dean's research.

Modern Education
There are points about the long-haired Kates, Janes, Adelines, Emmas, Susans, Emilias, Constances, whose very advanced parents in the fifties and sixties were determined "to give their girls as good an education as their sons."

They had men teachers. Later Miss Dorothea Beale became the first woman to join the teaching staff.

Their education was modern, even for to-day, despite their long, heavy skirts and inescapable chaperones. They shocked even their broadminded parents by attending life classes.

They all adored their Italian master, handsome, bearded Eduardo Fusco, who dashed off in the sixties to fight for Garibaldi, and returned in 1866, the schoolgirls' idol.

CREAM BRIDAL GOWN

An all-cream wedding scheme has been decided on by Miss Constance Radford, daughter of the Hon. Mrs. Corbet Radford, who is marrying Cmdr. W. M. Phipps Hornby, son of Adml. and Mrs. R. S. Phipps Hornby.

The wedding is to take place on Saturday, July 8 at St. Paul's, Onslow-Square.

She will wear a cream chiffon wedding gown in the same shade as her train of Brussels lace. The gown is being made on very simple lines, decorated with bands of tucking.

Deep cream net will make the dress of her only attendant, Miss Nancy Martin-John.

'LADIES DAY' AT ROTARY CLUB MR. BERNARD BROWN'S WITTY & INTERESTING LUNCHEON ADDRESS

Accountant's Adventures In "The Glorious East"

Described by the Chairman as one of the best talks given at a Rotary luncheon, the address by Mr. C. Bernard Brown to a "Ladies' Day" gathering of the Hongkong Rotary Club in the Roof Garden of the Hongkong Hotel yesterday was received with applause of a volume seldom equalled at such meetings.

Entitled "Welcome to the Glorious East," Mr. Brown's talk was a continuation of a previous speech to the Club. In the latter he had dealt with his experiences as a clerk in the City of London 27 years ago; yesterday he told of some of his "adventures" following his arrival in the Colony in 1912 to take up a post with a firm of chartered accountants.

Punctuated with amusing anecdotes and witticisms, and even more interesting than the previous one, the talk kept a large audience, amongst whom were many ladies, in frequent spasms of laughter.

Major R. D. Walker, M.C., presided.

MR. BROWN'S ADDRESS

Mr. Brown said in part—I was encouraged to accept the invitation to address you again by reason of the very kind reception you accorded my remarks on a previous occasion. I had feared that my form of humour might not appeal to you. It does not to everyone. I remember a headmaster of mine spilling an otherwise good report by writing: "I am not satisfied with his conduct to earn a reputation for provoking mirth and buffoonery in general is not a very noble ambition."

This put a damper on my attempts at being funny for a long time. I find I now also have to address the gentler sex and, whilst appreciating the honour, I fear it will rather cramp my style. I can only say to the ladies here to-day: "I hope you can take it." (Laughter.)

I propose to carry on from where I left off, and to give you an impression of the Hongkong of the day as seen through my eyes when they were a quarter of a century younger.

FALSE COLOURS

"I must say that I arrived in Hongkong under false colours, though I was an innocent party thereto. Before leaving England I endeavoured to ascertain what were the essentials to social success in Hongkong and was told that it was important to know how to play billiards, bridge, and to be able to dance. I had a fortnight's holiday before my departure for the East, and spent my time in having my teeth fixed, and in an intensive acquisition of these accomplishments."

But I omitted the most important. How was I to know that my new talpan, an old interpreter, and Chairman of the Cricket Club, at a dinner, after referring to cricket bringing out all the best in a young man, the team spirit and all that, had concluded by saying that he had intended for a new man from Home and had made but one stipulation: "He must be a cricketer."

The subject presents so few attractions that I will deal with it as briefly as possible. Upon my arrival here my poor attainments were tried out one by one. I was weighed in the balance and found wanting, my culminating offence being that I was engaged to be married. I did say something about tennis, being my name, and that served until my talpan's wife knocked my head off in a single.

ACCOUNTANTS AND S.A.

And now a few words about the accountancy profession of those days, and here I'm afraid I'm going to bore the ladies. So I will digress for a moment and explain to them that though an accountant's work is very important, he seldom cuts a romantic figure. You never hear of the accountant as the hero of a motion picture play or of a modern novel. Indeed, the well-known dramatic critic James Agate said of a certain charming personality that he could not possibly be an accountant, as they were entirely devoid of charm, whether chartered or otherwise.

To return to Hongkong, when I arrived the Colony had just become conscious that there were such persons as qualified accountants. Shortly after my arrival a Society was formed called "The Accountants and Auditors in Hongkong." I have here a memo of the inaugural dinner held at the Hongkong Hotel on November 15, 1913. When I say inaugural dinner, it was also the last. The atmosphere was too rarified for the Society to last long. (Laughter.)

The officers were:—President, H. Percy Smith; Vice-President, A. R. Lowe; Treasurer, myself; Secretary, G. Allan Duncan. Of the four I am the sole survivor.

ORIGINALLY MERCHANTS

The firm which had the distinction of acquiring my services was established by Theophilus Instead over 80 years ago. They were originally merchants' pure and simple, and when I arrived all that was left of the merchant business was occasional consignments of lead, safes and cigars. The lead and safes soon disappeared, but it was only comparatively recently that I sold my last box of cigars. (Laughter.)

Before Mr. Taggart bought it up we were General Managers of the Steam Laundry Co., and we got a certain amount of sack out of that. Those were the days of hard collars, and we installed a machine which was, perhaps, rather inaptly described as a "Collar Finisher," and at the general meeting of the company, my talpan issued a cordial invitation to all and sundry to send their collars to be "finished." (Laughter.)

SOCIAL LIFE

Let us now turn a moment to the social life of the Colony. Hongkong has been charged with being stand-offish and exclusive. Whether or not that is true to-day, it certainly applied, in my opinion, to the Hongkong of 25 years ago. Calling was "de rigueur" for bachelors, almost every dinner party was a white tie and tails affair, and if a female was seen in the stalls at the City Hall she was liable to be considered as being no better than she ought to be.

Of course, the women were the principal offenders, but they contaminated the men. So far as the youth of the place was concerned, there was a select circle consisting of employees of the Princely House, of the Exchange Bank and a sprinkling of young professional men and mercantile assistants into which it was hard to penetrate,

ALLEGED FALSE PRETENCES

Evidence Given By Sergeant Major

At the resumed hearing at the Central Court yesterday the case in which E. D. Sykes, broker, is charged with obtaining money by false pretences from the Reliance Motors Ltd. Staff Sergeant Major H. Lord, R. A. S. C. gave evidence that he first met Sykes at the end of February, when he came to his office with a letter of introduction from the Chief Clerk of the Assistant Director of Transport. After reading it, witness had a short conversation with Sykes. He told Sykes that a contract was to be concluded before February, and told Sykes to make a formal application.

The second occasion he met Sykes was on March 2, when he (Sykes) had a letter addressed to Col. Henderson, and two or three catalogues.

For the next two to three weeks, Sykes continued to call at witness' office, which annoyed witness very much. Witness had never given Sykes any information. On May 24, witness saw Sykes and Mr. J. A. Duff at the St. Francis Hotel, where he told them that the contract for lorries must go through the usual channels.

After Mr. J. A. Duff was re-examined by Mr. Loseby, the hearing was adjourned to tomorrow.

Mr. O. E. C. Marton appeared for the prosecution, while Mr. F. H. Loseby was for the defence.

and outside which you were not of much account. One lady once remarked to one of my principals, "Why don't you employ gentlemen in your firm, people like those nice men in the Hongkong Bank?"—and they're all chartered accountants."

As I did not play golf, Sunday was a difficult day to fill in. I used to sing in the Union Church choir. Some of you have had the privilege of hearing me sing. (Laughter) and to those of you who have not I would say that whatever its quality, my voice may fairly be described as robust. On my first Christmas Sunday in Hongkong, the choir had to render an anthem in which first the troubles would warble and then the basses come in with a roar. On my arrival at the Church I found that, although there were lots of sopranos and altos, I was the only bass. The words of the bass lead were "And suddenly where was with the angels," and I can assure you that the suddenness of my appearance amongst those angels was equally a surprise to them and the rest of the congregation.

In the course of time, when I had found my feet, I joined a mess, and in this connection a couple of anecdotes I trust will not weary you. On one occasion we had a chest expansion competition, and the last competitor was the obvious winner. He had a truly remarkable expansion; the tape measure ran round his chest till it was nearly red-hot and he stood there like the frog in the fable, full of wind and pride. But, of course, inflation cannot go on for ever. Time for deflation must follow, and his exhalation was of such force as to cause him to propel his dental plate across the room to be shattered on the opposite wall. (Laughter.)

This concludes my memoirs. Shortly afterwards I got married and lost my identity. (Prolonged laughter.) Thank you for listening to me. I hope I have not unduly bored you. (Loud Applause.)

SPEAKER THANKED

The Chairman, in thanking the speaker, said that as it was the 27th anniversary of the latter's arrival in the Colony, they had celebrated the occasion by asking him to give them the talk they had just heard. They had listened with great interest and had been amused and entertained by one of the best talks given in that room.

The men are Ma Chiu-fan, Chung Ping-hei, Mo Hui-chen, Man Tse-hong and Wong Tse-wei.

CHINA'S LEADERS
CONFIDENT

THE CHINESE people must be greatly encouraged by the optimistic tone which pervaded the messages issued by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and other leaders on the occasion of the second anniversary of the undeclared Sino-Japanese war. Without a single exception, those who issued the messages expressed the utmost confidence in China's ultimate victory and her determination to continue the war of resistance against Japan's invasion irrespective of the amount of sacrifices and privations they suffer or the length of time that the war may take.

CHINA REFUSES to terminate her resistance until and unless Japan abandons her aggressive policy for she realizes that she is fighting not only for her national existence, independence and integrity but for great things. She is fighting for Democracy, for world peace and the sanctity of international treaties. Everybody by now realizes that it is necessary to defeat Japan, who has proved herself, by her ruthless barbarism, to be an uncivilized and uncivilized race and a menace to the world at large. Victory for Japan would mean a step forward in her ambitious plans to conquer the world. After what civilized people have seen of her "culture," they certainly have no wish to benefit by such culture.

IN SPITE of the fact that a few renegades and puppets, such as Wang Ching-wei, have prostituted themselves by allowing themselves to be bought over, body and soul, with the blood money of the Japanese militarists, the Chinese people under Generalissimo Chiang remain as firm as ever and they have displayed a loyalty and patriotism such as has never before witnessed in the history of that great country. They have shown an undaunted spirit which no armed force can subdue, a spirit which has won for them the admiration of everybody.

WANG CHING-WEI, and his cronies have backed the wrong horse and, if they think that they can depend upon the Japanese militarists to support them in establishing an independent government, representative of the Chinese people, they are greatly mistaken for they can never represent the Chinese people, whose one aim is to defeat the invaders and drive them into the sea, not accept them as masters. Wang and his traitor friends do not have the backing of a single Chinese military leader so, after the defeat of Japan, what will happen? Do they intend to flee to Japan and there establish themselves as a "Chinese Government" which represents nobody but a few renegades? There is no doubt that the days of the Japanese and their puppets are numbered. To use the words of the Generalissimo, "They have dug their own graves and it remains only for the Chinese to push them in."

THE FOUNDATION of China's ultimate victory has been laid through the efforts of the Chinese people. Their task is not yet over by any means. Much has to be done but the Chinese people can be relied upon to prove their loyalty to their country and their Generalissimo and to fight on until final victory has been achieved.

MME. CHIANG'S
MESSAGE

Woman Suffrage Conference

CHUNGKING, July 11 (Central)—On behalf of all Chinese women, Madame Chiang Kai-shek has sent a congratulatory message to the 13th annual conference of the International Woman Suffrage Association now being held in Copenhagen, capital of Denmark.

Madame Chiang says that seven years ago the National Government adopted a policy of equality between men and women, giving all civil rights to women. The same government is now leading the 450,000,000 Chinese in a bitter struggle against ruthless Japanese aggression for the purpose of ensuring national freedom, and laying a permanent foundation for world peace, and justice as well as equality between men and women.

Madame Chiang requests the Association to extend aid to the Chinese, especially women, to drive out the invaders and reconstruct a free new China, for only then can the women in the Far East continue to co-operate effectively with the women of the world for cultural advancement.

Molotov Makes
New Demands

CHAMBERLAIN
STANDS PAT
ON BALTIC

LONDON, July 11 (Reuter)—In the House of Commons yesterday, asked to give an assurance that no sovereign state, contrary to its will, will be included in any non-aggression pact entered into by Britain, Mr. Chamberlain stated that it was the general policy of His Majesty's Government to maintain respect for the integrity of all sovereign states.

In particular they were aware of the desire of Finland and the Baltic States to preserve their independence and neutrality and this was also the objective of His Majesty's Government.

Baltic Neutrality

PARIS, July 11 (Reuter)—M. Bonnet, the French Foreign Minister, examined Mr. Molotov's reply to the latest Franco-British proposals and later consulted the French Ambassador in London, M. Corbin, by telephone.

It is understood, in diplomatic circles, that despite the fact that agreement has been reached on a great number of points, the negotiations are faced with appreciable difficulties as a result of the new demands made by M. Molotov.

A learner-driver, Miss V. C. Williams, was fined $10 when she was summoned before Mr. Q. A. A. MacLachlan at the Kowloon Court yesterday for driving without due care and caution in Sai Kung Road on June 17. V. Novikov, of No. 35 Cumberland Road, was fined $5 for driving his car on the wrong side of Nullah Road on June 19.

CORRESPONDENCE

Village Road
Tenants

[The Editor, of the "Hongkong Daily Press"]

Sir,—The report appearing in a Hongkong newspaper about the stand of the tenants of the Yiu Kwong Terrace in Village Road, Happy Valley, is likely to convey a "wrong impression of the situation."

Some of the statements in the report are not an altogether correct representation of the situation and the views said to be expressed by a tenant may be the views of any individual tenant and not necessarily of the majority of the tenants.

So far as I understand, the general feeling amongst the tenants is that they would be willing for amicable settlement with the landlord if the latter wishes it so; but they are, at the same time, prepared to meet any eventually if the landlord takes a stand otherwise. There is no desire amongst the tenants to aggravate the matter but rather to straighten it out with the landlord in a spirit of give and take if the latter is willing to do so.

HONGKONG WOULD BE ABANDONED!
TOKYO PAPER DISCUSSES PROSPECTIVE OUTCOME OF ANGLO-JAPANESE WAR

Extraordinary Conclusions:
How Singapore Would Be "Conquered"

TOKYO, July 11 (T.Ocean)—The possibility of an Anglo-Japanese war and its prospective outcome is discussed by the paper "Yominuri Shimbun" on Monday.

If such a war should break out, the paper says, the Far East would become the scene of some gigantic battles.

The paper believes that the Japanese General Staff, in case of such a war, have planned an attack on Singapore, where the British Navy is likely to retreat, since Britain would not be able to hold Hongkong against a Japanese attack and, would, therefore, abandon it.

SO EASY!

The Japanese, attacking with their air force and submarines, would have no great difficulty in conquering the Malay Peninsula and the loss of Singapore in such a war would mean the downfall of the entire British defence in the Far East.

In support of this opinion, the paper enumerates Britain's naval forces. They consist of 14 battleships, 14 cruisers of "A" Class, 49 cruisers of "B" Class, including the cruisers Belfast and Edinburgh, and seven aircraft carriers, two of which belong to an antiquated type.

The European tension has prevented Britain from sending battleships and a large number of cruisers to the Far East.

JAPAN'S DEFENCE?

In the event of the United States and France assisting Britain in such a war, the paper believes that the Japanese General Staff have prepared a reliable defence.

The paper appears to be confident in the Japanese military command and is also sure that a naval war would, in any case, end in Japan's favour.

"MILLIONS WITH ONE HEART"

YOUNG CHINA MARCHES
ON... TO VICTORY

The Spirit Of The Mings
Regenerated: Recruiting
Methods Explained

BY T. PAUL GREGORY

Man-power is the first consideration of any army. Without a sufficiency of soldiers no nation can endure the agony of a lengthy war.

More than this, however, the decisive factor in any campaign is the human element. No matter how advanced the degree of an army's mechanization, the brunt of battle must be borne by the rank and file. It is these largely unsung heroes in the front line trenches who make victory possible, and upon whose morale depends the successful culmination of any struggle.

It is therefore evident that the nation which has the most reserves of man-power will have the last word to say in determining the issue of any conflict. Russia, of all the great powers, probably has the most abundant supply of a rugged, intelligent and adaptable material which in the time of war could be speedily transformed into efficient soldiers.

THE WHIP-HAND:

China, even more than the mighty domain of the Soviet, is blessed with reserves of man-power, which are practically inexhaustible, and it is to these millions of potential soldiers that she, regardless of her seeming defeats on many fronts, owes the fact that she still holds the whip-hand.

Gone for ever are the notions of the not-so distant past when Chinese of all sections of society glibly quoted the ancient adage that "Good iron is not used for making nails, and good men do not become soldiers."

The "fight for national existence" in the unrighteous war with Japan has stirred semi-mediaeval Cathay to the very depths, and something of the spirit of the Ming period has been regenerated, when China was a power in Asia and the mistress of her own door-step. Japan's policy of "Senshu-kait" (frightfulness) under the guise of "establishing a new order in East Asia" has been the heaven which is revolutionizing the opinions and pre-conceived notions of the great masses of the people. To be a soldier is no longer regarded as the dead end of all vocations, but is being eagerly embraced by an ever-increasing number as the depredations of Japan increase.

UNPRECEDENTED:

Atrocities committed upon helpless non-combatants in the occupied areas, have fanned hatred of the Nipponese invaders to a white heat, and among the first effects of this campaign of planned murder, loot and rapine have been the startling change in China's ancient bias against soldiering. Hundreds of thousands of young men have now donned the uniform, and of these at least one-half are volunteers. This is unprecedented in the annals of China's long history.

Of these youthful volunteers, thousands are serving in the armies of the Central Government, while other thousands are enrolled in the ranks of fierce guerrilla warriors who make the hearts of the Japanese and their puppet supporters quake with terror. But even this ever-growing number of those voluntarily enlisting for war-time service is insufficient, and so the Chinese Government has adopted the expedient of conscription—not the universal form known in the West—but a modified one, which for fairness is admirable, and one, too, which is based on the fundamentally democratic scheme of Chinese society.

The basis of this recruiting unit is, of course, the village. Villages of perhaps one hundred families (say five hundred inhabitants) are required to furnish a monthly quota of three recruits for the army, but those who are drafted for service are selected in a most impartial way.

RECRUITING:

The recruiting procedure is under the direction of an officer appointed to supervise each district, and who makes the rounds of all the villages and hamlets in his territory. Upon his arrival at the designated time, he notifies the elders of the village that a selection ceremony is to take place. This is usually held in the evening, after the day's work has been done in the fields, and the tryst for the solemn event is the ancestral temple.

Here all the eligible young men are gathered together, but those who are present are drawn from families which possess at least three able-bodied sons of the age of nineteen or over.

Those families which have only one or two sons of military age are exempt, and in the case of those which have more than three sons, only the youth who is nearest to the age of nineteen is liable to be chosen.

PATRIOTIC SPIRIT:

The selection ceremony is carried out in an atmosphere of intense emotion, and the patriotic spirit of the audience is aroused to a high pitch by the simple but direct appeal of the recruiting officer, who explains to the crowd the meaning of the occasion and the necessity of each doing his or her utmost for their country in the heroic struggle for existence.

What must be the sentiments that surge through the breasts of these youthful listeners as they hear the recital of their country's wrongs, and the need for their personal service to save the nation?

Their duty to the land where the black-haired race have made their home for more than forty centuries is impressed upon them, and when the dramatic moment comes for the selection of recruits, each listener is keyed up with expectancy.

Eagerly they watch the officer count out a sequence of small bamboo tallies, equal to the number of eligible lads waiting to be chosen. Deliberately and unhurriedly, he places them in a box, and adds to their number three other slips painted white.

These are shuffled thoroughly like dominoes or the tiles in a game of mah-jongg, and when they are deemed sufficiently mixed, each youth is invited to draw one slip without looking. Those who pick out the white tallies are automatically selected, and become the recruiting quota for the village during the month.

NEW PSYCHOLOGY:

The three nominees are enthusiastically applauded by the throng, and looked upon with envy by their fellows who clamour that they, too, may be chosen. Under the new psychology of the people to be a soldier for the Motherland is regarded as a privilege, and it is with pride that the village feasts its departing sons who leave to serve at the front.

For five days the entertainment continues, and then the three recruits join those of neighbouring villages, and together they march away to the strains of the Yung-kwan Tsun-hang-k'uk (Volunteers' Marching Song) China's "Marseillaise"—with the stirring chorus:

Arise! Arise! Arise! We millions with one heart,
Braving the enemy's heavy fire,
We march along!

In the midst of the enemy's heavy fire, marching on! Marching on! Marching on!

Young China is on the march to victory.

BRITISH GUARANTEE TO POLAND WILL BE CARRIED OUT IN CASE OF THREAT TO HER INDEPENDENCE

Premier Reviews Danzig Situation In Commons

"We have guaranteed to give our assistance to Poland in case there is a clear threat to her independence, which she considers it vital to resist with all her national forces, and we are firmly resolved to carry out this undertaking," said Mr. Neville Chamberlain, in the House of Commons yesterday, in the course of his eagerly awaited statement on the situation in Danzig.

In Berlin, the Prime Minister's speech raised no comment, the opinion being that it contained nothing surprising or new, but in Poland the Premier's statement caused great satisfaction as defining Great Britain's attitude clearly and firmly.

LONDON, July 11 (Reuter)

Mr. Neville Chamberlain said: "I previously stated that His Majesty's Government was maintaining close contact with the Polish and French Governments on the question of Danzig."

"I have nothing at present to add to the information already given about the local situation, but I may, perhaps, usefully review the elements of this question as they appear to His Majesty's Government."

A German City "Racially, Danzig is almost wholly a German city, but the prosperity of the inhabitants depends to a very large extent upon Polish trade. The Vistula is Poland's only waterway to the Baltic and the port at its mouth, therefore, is of vital strategic and economic importance to her."

"Another Power established in Danzig could, if it so desired, block Poland's access to the sea and so exert a military and economic stranglehold upon her."

"Those responsible for framing the present statute of the Free City were fully conscious of these facts and did their best to make provision accordingly. Moreover, there is no question of any oppression of the German population in Danzig."

Liberty Of Citizens "On the contrary, the administration of the Free City is in German hands and the only restrictions imposed on it are not of the kind to curtail the liberties of the citizens."

"The present settlement, though it may be capable of improvement, cannot, on itself, be regarded as basically unjust or illogical. The maintenance of its status quo has, in fact, been guaranteed by the German Chancellor up to 1944 by a Ten-Year Treaty, which he concluded with Marshal Pilsudski."

"Up to last March Germany was seen to have felt that while the position in Danzig might ultimately require revision, the question was neither urgent nor likely to lead to a serious dispute."

"But in March, when the German Government put forward an offer in the form of certain desiderata, accompanied by a press campaign, the Polish Government realized that they might at present be faced with a unilateral solution which they would have to resist with all their forces."

Important Dates "They had before them the events which had taken place in Austria, Czechoslovakia and Memelland. Accordingly they refused to accept the German point of view and themselves made suggestions for a possible solution of the problems in which Germany was interested."

"Certain defensive measures were taken by Poland on Mar. 23 and a reply was sent to Berlin on Mar. 26. I ask the House to note carefully these dates."

"It has been freely stated in Germany that it was His Majesty's Government's guarantee which encouraged the Polish Government to take the action which I have described. But our own guarantee was not given until Mar. 31. By Mar. 26, no mention of it had even been made to the Polish Government."

Fears Aroused

"Recently, the occurrences in Danzig have inevitably given rise to fears that it was intended to settle the future status by unilateral action, organized by surreptitious methods, thus presenting Poland and the other Powers with a fait accompli."

"In such circumstances, any action taken by Poland to restore the situation would, it has been suggested, be represented as an act of aggression on her part, and if her action was supported by the other Powers they would have been accused of abetting her in the use of force."

"If the sequence of events should, in fact, be such as it was contemplated in this hypothesis, members will realize that the issue could not be considered purely a local matter involving the rights and liberties of the people of Danzig, which, incidentally, were in no way threatened, but would at once raise graver issues affecting Polish national existence and independence."

"We have guaranteed to give our assistance to Poland in case there is a clear threat to her independence, which she considers it vital to resist with all her national forces and we are firmly resolved to carry out this undertaking."

Two Conditions

"I have said that, while the present settlement is neither basically unjust or illogical, it may be capable of improvement. It may be that in a clearer atmosphere possible improvement could be discussed. Indeed, Col. Beck himself said on May 5 that if the Reich was guided by two conditions, namely, peaceful intentions and peaceful methods of procedure, all conversations are possible."

"In his speech before the Reichstag on April 28, Herr Hitler said that if the Polish Government wished to come to fresh contractual arrangements governing relations with Germany, he could but welcome such an idea. He added that any future arrangement would have to be based on an absolutely clear obligation equally binding on both parties."

His Majesty's Government realize that the recent developments in the Free City have disturbed confidence and rendered it difficult at present to find an atmosphere in which reasonable counsels can prevail."

Poland's Calm "Faced with this situation, the Polish Government remain calm and His Majesty's Government hope that the Free City, with her ancient traditions, may again prove, as she has done before, that different nationalities can work together when their real interests coincide."

"In the meanwhile, I trust all concerned will declare and show their determination not to allow any incidents in connexion with Danzig to assume such a character as might constitute a menace to the peace of Europe. (Cheers.)"

Berlin View

BERLIN, July 11 (Reuter)—Mr. Chamberlain's statement contains nothing surprising and nothing new, in the opinion of official quarters here, where it is declared that the speech does not change the present situation."

A political spokesman, commenting on Mr. Chamberlain's Danzig statement, declared that the powers which gave Danzig the status of a Free City are now endeavouring to make it an issue menacing peace."

Referring to Mr. Chamberlain's statement that Britain's guarantee had nothing to do with Poland's attitude, the spokesman said that he could not expect them to believe that Poland and Britain did not discuss the matter long before March 31."

Great Satisfaction

WARSAW, July 11 (Reuter)—Circles in close touch with the Government declared that Mr. Chamberlain's declaration in the House of Commons has caused "great satisfaction" in Poland.

It was added in the same circles that while the declaration introduced no new element into the POLITICAL LULL IN EUROPE?

HITLER TO REMAIN AT BERCHTESGADEN

BERLIN, July 11 (T/Ocean)—Gen. von Braunsbach, the Commander-in-Chief of the German Army, has gone on a several weeks leave.

The German Fuehrer is to remain at Berghof, near Berchtesgaden, for some time, without returning to Berlin.

These signs are interpreted by Berlin political quarters to mean that the Reich Government does not expect serious political complications in Europe during the next weeks.

The reports published by the Polish papers that the Reichstag has been summoned in middle of July in order to hear an important statement to be made by the Fuehrer on Danzig, are declared as ridiculous, by the Berlin official circles.

The German Fuehrer will probably receive Herr Forster, the National Socialist Party Leader of Danzig, on Tuesday at the Obersalzberg, for a report on the Danzig situation.

"Fantastic?"

The reports spread by a French news agency, asserting Generalissimo Franco will visit Herr Hitler at the Obersalzberg are officially described in Berlin as "fantastic," because no reason is seen at present for such a discussion, especially since the Italian Foreign Minister, Count Ciano, is at present on a State visit to Spain.

The Berlin paper "Angriff" reports the Italian reports that England plans the fortification of the Suez Canal, adding that such an English action is tantamount to a provocation of Rome, in addition being a violation of the Anglo-Italian agreement.

"Party Day of Peace" This year's National Socialist Party Day of Nuremberg is to be held from September 2 to 11, under the motto "Party Day of Peace."

This year's Party Day will be two days longer than usually, in order to give more time to the various items on the programme.

TRAITORS' WOES

TROUBLES OF WANG'S SHANGHAI ORGAN

Japanese money can set up any number of traitorous news-sheets, but it cannot get them read or distributed.

Wang Ching-wei has learned this painful truth from the experience of his "central organ," the "Chung Hwa Jih Pao" when its first number appeared in Shanghai yesterday.

According to reliable Chinese reports, numerous newspaper sellers were recruited by the puppet paper to make its opening issue a success. Each man was given a thousand copies, and, for distributing them, the minimum sum of $30.

The newsboys took the money, then adjourned to discuss the situation. As a result, they took their bundles to a buyer of wrapping paper. They disposed of each for $5 and thus emerged from the day's work $35 the richer.

The circulation department of the "Chung Hwa Jih Pao" is looking for more bright ideas.

situation, it had crystallized the attitude of the British Government.

There is also a feeling that Poland would have been forced to react to the recent developments in the Free City and thus appear in the role of an aggressor unless the British Government had unequivocally declared their support of Poland.

It is thought that the speech, which is described in unofficial circles as firm and clear, has gone a long way towards preventing a conflict over Danzig by defining Great Britain's attitude so firmly within the meaning of the Anglo-Polish Pact, a threat to Poland's independence such as she would be justified in regarding it of vital interest to resist with her national forces.

BRITAIN'S STAND IN DANZIG

To the ordinary English understanding the answer was plain enough—transfer of Danzig to the Reich by whatever means it might be brought about would be a threat to Polish independence and, therefore, casus foederis.

"But purveyors of the legend of perdition Albion have been endeavouring to insinuate that the lack of a precise definition was a deliberate manoeuvre by the British Government to provide themselves with a loophole for slipping out of their obligations. There is evidence that the Nazis have been feeling their way to see whether they might not exploit this supposed equivocation in order to drive a wedge between Britain and Poland."

"Henceforward they cannot have a shred of justification for continuing to harbour any such illusion. Having thus defined more precisely the scope of our obligation, Mr. Chamberlain went on to reiterate the firm resolve of this country to honour its undertakings."

"In short the Nazis have been warned, once and for all, that if they stage a putsch in Danzig, under whatever guise, they will be throwing out a challenge which the peoples of Britain, France and Poland will take up as one man."

The "News-Chronicle" says: "The Prime Minister's statement on Danzig yesterday was as clear as carefully chosen words could make it, and taken in conjunction with Lord Halifax's recent speech, it sets the seal on British policy as far as the Free City is concerned. In his review of factors in the Danzig situation Mr. Chamberlain showed a grasp of the essentials which he utterly lacked at the time of Munich."

The "Daily Herald" says, "Mr. Chamberlain spoke clearly yesterday. If Herr Hitler provokes war over Danzig then he does so with his eyes open. The Prime Minister's statement covers the possibility of either direct, or indirect, aggression against Danzig. No distinction is drawn between them."

The "Daily Mail" says, "Britain now says that if Danzig is undermined from within she will support her ally just as firmly as if a direct attack were made on the Free City from without. In other words, this country will no longer be taken in by a fifth column technique which led to Austria, Sudetenland, Bohemia and Slovakia by inviting Germany to come in and save them from themselves."

RIBBENTROP TAKES HOLIDAY

BERLIN, July 11 (Reuter)—Herr von Ribbentrop, the Reich Foreign Minister, left Berlin yesterday on a holiday which he hopes will last for several weeks.

He has been in poor health lately.

CONTINUATION OF TIENTSIN BLOCKADE FOR 2 YEARS, IF NECESSARY, THREATENED

BERLIN, July 11 (T/Ocean)—Mr. Tashiro, the Japanese Consul-General in Tientsin, in an interview granted to a semi-official German news agency, declared that Japan, if necessary, would continue the blockade of the British Concession in Tientsin for one or two years.

He added that already the economic effects of the blockade were felt in Tientsin in the British Concession. Non-British firms had left the Concession territory, while more than ten Chinese exchange banks had moved into the Japanese Concession.

The result to the many Chinese evacuating the British Concession is beginning to show signs of shortage of labour.

Mr. Tashiro pointed out that the longer the blockade continued, the quicker new business centres developed outside the Concession territory.

The Japanese authorities had already decided to build new business premises on a large scale and new roads.

Yet Another Stripping Incident

BRITON SUBJECTED TO CLOSE SEARCH

TIENTSIN, July 11 (Reuter)—A Briton, Mr. Ivor House, who had previously figured in two stripping incidents in Tientsin, was subjected to a further indignity this morning when he tried to enter the British Concession.

Before allowing him to do so, the Japanese sentries made him take off his shoes, stockings and trousers and searched him closely.

Four Britons who were accompanying him were not molested.

BRITISH CONSULATE STONED

ANTI-BRITISH DEMONSTRATIONS IN TSINGTAO

Two Banks Also Damaged

TSINGTAO, JULY 11 (REUTER)—JAPANESE SPONSORED CHINESE DEMONSTRATORS STONED AND THREW FIRE CRACKERS AT THE BRITISH CONSULATE GENERAL THIS MORNING, CAUSING SOME DAMAGE.

The demonstrators also attacked the premises of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank and the Chartered Bank by smashing the doors and windows.

They distributed thousands of anti-British handbills and Japanese troops who saw the incidents did not intervene.

The British Consular authorities are viewing the matter very seriously and are reporting on the incident fully to London.

In Taiyuan

HINGTSL, July 11 (Central)—The Japanese-sponsored anti-British movement in Taiyuan, capital of Shensi, under Japanese occupation, has been intensified.

A large number of anti-British placards and cartoons have been put up in the streets. Under the supervision of the puppet authorities parades have been held.

KING TO VISIT NAVAL COLLEGE

LONDON, July 11 (T/Ocean)—Old English customs will be revived at the visit to be paid by H.M. the King to the Royal Naval College in Greenwich on Tuesday evening.

The King will proceed down the Thames in the State barge and inaugurate the renovated historic hall of the College.

PROGRESS OF INDUSTRIAL CO-OPERATIVES IN CHINA

Rewi Alley, Chief Adviser, Describes Dynamic Growth

Interesting facts regarding the Chinese Industrial Co-operatives were given by Mr. Rewi Alley, chief technical adviser of the movement, when he spoke of the progress and expansion of the work during the last nine months at a reception at the Chinese Merchants' Club yesterday.

Miss Ida Pruitt, chairman of the Hongkong Promotion Committee, presided, and those present included the Right Rev. Bishop Ronald Hall, Mr. Shou J. Chen, Mr. Edgar Snow, Mr. Ip Lan-chuen, Mr. T. Kai Liang, Mdm. Wu Tchen, Mrs. Li Shu-pui, Miss Alice Kwok, Miss Marion Dudley and Dr. and Mrs. Chan Han-seng.

Mr. Alley, who was formerly industrial adviser to the Chinese Government and to the Shanghai Municipal Council, said that it was a year since he left Shanghai for Hankow with the British Ambassador, who took him, at the request of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Headquarters, to various places to observe conditions and to help to organize co-operative industries.

1,000 Co-operatives

In September, said Mr. Alley, the first co-operative was set up in South Shensi, and the work had since progressed very rapidly. There were now about 300 co-operatives in the Northwest, and about 1000 throughout China.

These centres were now employing men and women who were previously rendered idle and desperate by the war. There was a willing staff of organizers, engineers and trainers, who were doing excellent work in promoting the co-operative movement and making it a success.

Through the co-operatives, proceeded Mr. Alley, the foundations were being laid for a people's movement which would help China to win the war and realise the objects of livelihood and independence when peace came.

If War Stopped To-morrow

If the war stopped to-morrow, said Mr. Alley, China would still have to depend on Japan for goods, especially in the cheaper types of consumers' goods. But if 30,000 small industrial units could be set up in China, then the country would be in a position to administer to her own wants and be independent of outside supplies.

Mr. Alley said he had just returned from the southeast headquarters of the C.I.C. in South Kiangsi. There were at the present time five headquarters in all in the country.

Illustrating the scope of the co-operative movement, Mr. Alley mentioned that the southeast headquarters alone was in charge of the work in no less than four provinces.

Land which was previously undeveloped had now been put to good use, and various small industries had been set up in a region which previously had not even one combustion engine. The country was rich and fertile, and had an abundance of raw materials, and the Co-operatives had made good use of the resources at their command.

Work in Kiangsi

The work in South Kiangsi had been helped by American missionaries in the area, and great and valuable assistance had also been given to the co-operative organizers by Gen. Chiang Ching-kuo, son of the Generalissimo, who was in command of the region.

There was a very poor hlien in south Kiangsi, said Mr. Alley, which before the war had no industry at all. Everything bought or sold there came from Shanghai and other coastal places. To-day it had 49 small industries organized on the co-operative principle.

The country was rich and fertile, and had an abundance of raw materials, and the Co-operatives had made good use of the resources at their command.

The industries were really started by some crippled soldiers who had been sent to the area after being treated for their injuries during the Shanghai war. They started the first co-operative, a chemical works, and later they went on to make tooth-brushes, towels, paper, tobacco, and to set up printing and tailoring shops and other trades and industries.

The soldiers had been reinforced by the country people, and all were now getting on very well in their work. Each co-operative was making a profit of about $2,000 a month, and everything made went into immediate sale, there being little necessity to look for a market.

No Failures

A significant indication of the value of the co-operatives was the fact that there had not been one single failure in the nine months since the movement was founded. Japanese bombings had caused certain stoppages, but in general the work had gone on smoothly.

Chinese students had been helping tremendously in the organization work, said Mr. Alley. There were certain difficulties in the work of organizing, but conditions were gradually improving. Mr. Alley mentioned the difficulty of securing good accountants in country districts and the problem of getting the people to make reports of the work done.

Government Aid

Those in charge of the work, said Mr. Alley, had to be grateful for the help and encouragement extended by all sections of people, both Chinese and foreign. In particular, Mr. Alley mentioned the help given by the banks and the respective provincial governments.

Dr. H. H. Kung, chairman of the Executive Yuan and Minister of Finance, had given an assurance that he would help the Co-operatives in every possible way, and in the past several months had done a great deal to promote the work. By autumn next year, if the movement could be developed as it should, Mr. Alley thought that the aim of having 30,000 small co-operative industries should be realised.

Bishop Hall, who also spoke, said industry organized on co-operative lines was the only basis of happiness and peace. It was a better way of running industry, he said, provided that it was run by better men.

Miss Pruitt also appealed for greater support for the movement.

WOUNDING INCIDENT ON PRAYA: MAN COMMITTED TO CRIMINAL SESSIONS

AT THE CENTRAL MAGISTRACY, YESTERDAY, SUI HEI, charged with wounding with intent to cause bodily harm, and common assault on Chung Lam and Chung Kat, on June 23, at Cannaught Road West, was committed to the Criminal Sessions by Mr. T. J. Houston.Mr. C. A. Sutherland Ross, for the prosecution, said that the two complainants and a number of coolies were carrying rice to a junk, when a number of women tried to board the craft. There were only two planks, one of which was used for boarding and the other for disembarking.When the women tried to use the planks, the coolies refused.
Defendant came up and an argument was started. He returned about 10 minutes later with a gang of 20 men, several of them are armed with choppers, and attacked the complainants, who sustained serious injuries.Dr. B. S. Begbie, Government Bacteriologist, testified that a chopper which he received from Detective-Sergeant Meyer bore blood stains but there was insufficient to make out whether it was human blood or not.

SCALP WOUND

Dr. D. E. Smith, Medical Officer of Queen Mary Hospital, said that Chung Kat had a scalp wound on the left side of the head. Chung Lam had an injury about four inches long in the right frontal of the head. He also examined Sui Hei, the defendant, who had a bruise on the right side of his upper arm and two minor bruises on the shin.Chung Kat said that he was employed as a coolie to carry rice from junks to the China Provident Go-down. The women wished to use the plank to go to the adjoining junk, when they were refused.
After 15 minutes later about 20 men arrived with knives and iron pipes. He was chopped and fell unconscious.Defendant said that he got the knife from a female rattan worker. It was not true that the women wanted to go down by the plank. The complainants refused to let the women down by the ladder. He was assaulted by Chung Kat and others, and fell to the ground.

GUERRILLAS SUCCESSFUL IN POOTUNG

Japanese Driven Back In Two Battles

Chinese reports claim that the latest Japanese attempt to wipe out guerrillas on the Pootung peninsula is another failure, asserting that the situation there has relaxed to the relief of many Pootung refugees living in the foreign settlements here.Japanese military authorities are stated to have recently gathered together about 2,000 men in Poo-tung and the southern section of the Whangpoo in order to make another attempt to defeat the trouble-making irregulars.Before the Japanese could do anything, however, leaders of the various bands of guerrillas met and decided to carry out a defence scheme jointly to forming a 60-kilometre defence line in both Fenghsien and Nanwei (all in Poo-tung).In addition to these precautionary measures "puppet" soldiers and police were persuaded to stage mutinies, it is stated.There has been fierce fighting, but the Japanese are stated to have been defeated in two important battles at Pankwantang and Chingweichiao.

BRITISH TRADE WITH CHINA

LONDON, July 11 (Reuter).—

Mr. F.J. Bellenger (Lab) asked in the House of Commons yesterday for the sterling value of the proposals submitted by British traders in the past six months, in connexion with exports to China, the proportions approved and the total value of the guarantees given by the Export Credits Guarantee Department in the period?

Mr. R. S. Hudson, Secretary for Overseas Trade, replied that the total contracts, policies and guarantees issued for the six months up to June 31 was £30,365,207. It was not the practice to state the amounts in respect of a particular country.

Lack Of Initiative?

Mr. Bellenger asked, in a supplementary question, whether the amount guaranteed by the Overseas Trade Department was less than £200,000 and, if this was so, whether it was due to lack of initiative of British traders or the fault of the Department?

Mr. Hudson declined to give further details as it was the practice of the department to regard as confidential all information relating to individual transactions.

JAN.-MARCH	28-7/8	28-11/16	28-5/16	off 1/8

The market opened with prices unchanged for all deliveries as compared with Saturday's closing quotations.

Quiet conditions prevailed throughout the day. Although demand from consuming centres for "actuals" was fair, dealers and speculators kept aloof, awaiting further developments on the exchanges in London and New York, which, following the usual summer practice, remained closed on Saturday last. Consequently only a negligible volume of business was recorded.

According to cable-reports received from New York the consensus of opinion amongst Rubber brokers as to the probable future trend of the market is optimistic. These circles base their belief on the fact that business-recovery is continually making steady progress in U.S.A., thus assuring further satisfactory Rubber-absorption, always providing however, that the market will not be subject to unforeseen outside influences, such as political crises, labour troubles etc.

Rubber stocks held in the United Kingdom showed a decrease of 1,717 tons for the week ending July 8, 1939.

NEW YORK COTTON

Following up the steadiness at the opening, the market became active and strong, reflecting the good demand caused by new trade buying and "bear" covering. Some foreign buying was also in evidence. There was a scarcity of contracts, which aided the advance in prices. The market closed with prices very near the day's best levels.

NEW YORK RUBBER

The market was again a narrow affair, and a slightly lower adjustment of prices was noted. However, a steady firm undertone was evinced towards the close.

League of Nations had ever been notified of the acts of aggression

by Soviet armies in China, culminating in the imposition of the Soviet system in Sinkiang and Szechuen, Mr. R.A. Butler, Under-

Secretary for Foreign Affairs, replied that there had been a wide extension of Russian influence in Sinkiang in the last few years,

but that the system of Government had not yet been Sovietized in either province nor had either of them been the object of aggression by the Soviet Union.

The election of the new chairman, vice-chairman and officers of the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce will be held at the Chamber's building in Connaught

Road on July 15. It is believed that Mr. Lee Shing-kui will be re-elected to the chairmanship and

Mr. J. M. Wong as vice-chairman.

JAPANESE TRIAL FOR
COL. SPEAR
SPECIAL COURTNo Charges Still Formulated

PEIPING, July 11 (Reuter).—

The Japanese army spokesman announced to-day that Col.

Spear, British Military Attache

to the Embassy, who was arrested by the Japanese in May last, would appear before a special court martial in Kalgan, but he was unable to reveal the date of the trial or the charges against Col. Spear.

The tribunal before which he would appear is a special body created since the present hostilities began and normally used for the trial of Japanese civilians or foreigners infringing the military law.

It consists of "persons attached to the Japanese Army" but not officers and this is believed to mean lawyers and other civilians attached to the fighting forces.

Questioned in regard to the right of this body to try Col.

Spear, the spokesman said that three Japanese soldiers were now being tried in Kalgan and added "If we can try our own soldiers, I guess we are able to try Col. Spear."

Query in Commons

In the House of Commons yesterday Mr. R.A. Butler, Under-

Secretary for Foreign Affairs, said that repeated representations had been made to the Japanese Government by Sir Robert Craigie for the release of Col. Spear.

Mr. Butler added that Sir Robert

Craigie would continue to press for Col. Spear's early release and that no charges had yet been formulated against him.

80 KILLED:
200 HURTPOWDER FACTORY
EXPLODES IN SPAIN

PARIS, July 11 (T/Ocean).—

Eighty were killed and more than 200 injured, while between 80 and 100 are reported missing as result of an explosion in a powder factory near Penaranda, in the Spanish Province of Salamanca, on Sunday.

A large number of houses were damaged and some were still ablaze on Monday afternoon.

A goods train at Penaranda

Station was completely destroyed by the explosion. The entire population in Penaranda evacuated to Salamanca. The damage so far done is estimated at several million pesetas.

The Spanish Government sent

200,000 pesetas as first relief money. The first brigades of Salamanca, Valladolid and Avila concentrated in Penaranda in fighting the fire.

Story Of Canton
Guerilla CorpsSuccessful Resistance
Inspires Confidence

The Japanese are out to destroy the Civilian Self-Defence Corps of a county just north of Canton and east of the Canton-Hankow Railway.

They first encountered resistance from this corps late last year when they pushed north following their occupation of the City of Rams.

Infuriated by Japanese destruction and atrocity, the natives of that region organized their own defence. It is estimated that early this year they possessed more than 10,-

000 rifles and about 80 light machine-guns.

The natives of this region had their first taste of war in November last year when, hiding in ambush, they surprised a Japanese detachment of over 70 men in a nearby mountain. Taken unawares, the Japanese retreated hastily, leaving 10 killed and wounded and two bicycles.

The Japanese four days later

TSAI TING-KAI COMMANDS
KWANGTUNG GROUP ARMYShanghai Hero Once
More Fights Enemy

General T sai Ting-kai, leader of the 19th Route Army that for over a month held back a better equipped Japanese invading army in the Shanghai war of January 1932, is now back in the ranks of China's fighting commanders.

For the past few months, he has been directing operations west of Canton, according to a recent dispatch from the South China front. In April his men successfully blocked the Japanese advance toward Kwangsi along the West River.

WOUNDED BY BOMBS

Last October, when he was visiting his native village at Loting in western Kwangtung he received an emergency message from Canton.

The Japanese had landed an army of 30,000 at Blas Bay and were marching toward the southern Chinese metropolis. He set out at once, but before he got to Canton, the city had fallen. He was wounded by Japanese aerial bombs on the outskirts of the city.

As soon as he had recovered, he set out for those districts southwest of Canton where for over a year he had been training and arming the peasants for self-defence. The following three months saw him leading these men against the invaders each time the Japanese attempted to penetrate deeper into the province.

Last March he came to Chungking in response to a call from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

When he returned to South China,

he had been made deputy commander of a group army of several divisions defending the West River regions.

According to Chinese war correspondents who recently visited his field headquarters, General

T sai has changed but little since the Shanghai war days seven years ago, except that to-day he is a little stouter.—C.I.C.

Mr. J. Winnings, Far Eastern representative of the Cunard White Star Line, announced yesterday that the new R. M. S. Queen Elizabeth, the largest passenger steamer in existence, will commence her maiden voyage to New York City from Southampton on April 24, 1940.

The date for the homebound maiden voyage from the New York port to Cherbourg and Southampton has been fixed for May 3, 1940.

The huge 85,000-ton Cunard White Star liner has fourteen decks, a modern de-luxe "sun-deck" being situated on the top level. There are several beauty parlours, barber shops, swimming pools, three cinemas and several nurseries.

Sound-Proof Floors
The cabin floors are sound-proof by travelling on a composition of rubber, granulated cork and cement. There is four inches of these materials covered with patterned linoleum.

Special provision for the carrying of motor-cars has been made and enables these vehicles to be unshipped quickly.

This passenger steamer, pride of the waves, was recently launched by Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth.

British Air Corporation

NEW SERVICES CONTEMPLATED

LONDON, July 11 (BWS).—The Second Reading of the bill to give effect to the Government's decision to merge Imperial Airways and British Airways into one big public corporation and to make further and better provision for the operation of air transport services, was moved in the House of Commons yesterday by the Secretary for Air.

Sir Kingsley Wood stated that the new corporation would continue the overseas services now being run by constituent companies and arrangements were also already in contemplation for the inception of a new service in various parts of the world.

Chief among these were extended services in Europe—the Trans-Tasman Service—a service across the North Atlantic and a service to West Africa and across the South Atlantic.

A Trans-Pacific service was also in contemplation.

The Bill was criticised by the Labour Opposition, principally in respect to its financial provisions, which, it was contended, would start the corporation with an excessive capital burden.
